2017 Grant Call

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Project</th>
<th>Recipient</th>
<th>Aim</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| 1 | Understanding the Saving Patterns of Lower-Income Individuals | Lee Jia Min, Jasmine
Department of Economics
National University of Singapore | The objectives of this research are to uncover some of factors that explain the saving behavior of Singaporeans, especially that of the low-income individuals. While it is intuitive that low-income individuals are less able to save, thus have lower savings, there might also be other significant factors that result in their low savings rate, such as their willingness to save. Upon understanding the factors that affect their savings decisions, institutions can act accordingly to encourage saving. |

2016 Grant Call

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Project</th>
<th>Recipient</th>
<th>Aim</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| 1 | Too Young to Get it: Eldercare Arrangement in Family for Young Onset Dementia Patients | Yong Jing Rong
Department of Sociology
National University of Singapore | The objectives of this research are to explore the different types of eldercare arrangement in family and the various factors that affect the types of arrangement provided for Early Onset Dementia (EOD) Patients. |
| 2 | Singaporean Parents’ Perspectives And Experiences On Raising A Child With Autism | Chong Hui Xian Jessica
School of Social Sciences
Nanyang Technological University | This study aims to better understand the insights of parents with children diagnosed with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD). This included their diverse experience ranging from negotiation of identity between the resources provided by government and Voluntary Welfare Organisations, lay public’s perception of ASD and their views on their child’s future prospects. |
Project 3
The Right to Education: An Inclusive Education for the Deaf in Singapore

Recipient
Stephanie Loo Pei Ning
School of Social Sciences
Nanyang Technological University

Aim
The study serves to find out the attitudes and concerns of both parents of typically-developing children and parents of deaf children towards inclusive education and the mainstream integration policy in the context of Singapore.

Project 4
The Influence of Culture and Familial Values on Subjective Well-being: Comparison between Chinese and Malays in Singapore

Recipients
Sarah Chan Hian May
Siti Halimahtul Raudah
School of Social Sciences
Nanyang Technological University

Aim
This research examines the predictive power of cultural and familial factors on differences in happiness between the two ethnic groups in Singapore (i.e. Chinese and Malays) and explore how different dimensions of cultural and familial indices vary in their effect on subjective well-being.

---

2015 Grant Call

Project 1
Absence for a Cause? A Study on Pre-school Attendance Rates of Children from Low-income Households

Recipient
Ng Woon Chian
Department of Economics
National University of Singapore

Aim
This study aims to better understand the insights of parents with children diagnosed with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD). This would include their diverse experience ranging from negotiation of identity between the resources provided by government and Voluntary Welfare Organisations, lay public’s perception of ASD and their views on their child’s future prospects.

Project 2
The Effects of Smartphone Use on Female Adolescents’ Body Concerns
Recipient | Wang Jiaqi Joy
| School of Social Sciences
| Singapore Management University

Aim | The study seeks to explore the effects of smartphone’s appearance-related content on female adolescents’ body esteem and social appearance anxiety.

2014 Grant Call

| 1 | Project | Motivation and Family Caregivers of Elderly Individuals: Exploring the Relevance of Self-Determination Theory and Filial Piety
| Recipient | Nur ‘Atiqah Binte Mohd Farhan
| School of Humanities and Social Sciences
| Nanyang Technological University

Aim | To explore how the components of Self-Determination Theory (SDT) - autonomy, competence and relatedness - could help to alleviate caregiver burden, specifically in the context of caring for elderly individuals.

2013 Grant Call

| 1 | Project | Tapping the Potential of Married Women in Singapore: The Role of Married Women in Supplementing Singapore’s Shrinking Labour Force
| Recipients | Wan Tin Wai
| Nur Atiqah Binte Abdul Razak
| Celestia Tan Wan Cheng
| Department of Economics
| Nanyang Technological University

Aim | To investigate how women spend their time and the corresponding value that Singaporean women place on unpaid work (e.g. household chores, childcare and eldercare) as well as the challenges that prevent them from remaining or returning to paid work or formal production.
2012 Grant Call

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Project</th>
<th>What is Holding You Back from Giving Birth? An Investigation of the Proximate Factors Affecting the Intention to Give Birth in Singapore</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Recipients | Vivian Lau Shi Ni
Tee Siew Lee
Tan Siok Ling
Yu Jianfei
Department of Economics
Nanyang Technological University |
| Aim | To investigate and provide insights on the proximate factors influencing fertility intentions in Singapore. |

2011 Grant Call

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Project</th>
<th>Singlehood and the Changing Perspectives on Marriage and Childbirth</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Recipient | Tan May Jan Clara
Department of Sociology
Nanyang Technological University |
| Aim | To examine how various factors could have affected the decisions of Singaporeans on marriage, with a focus on the role of policy. |

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Project</th>
<th>From Policy to Praxis: Understanding the Implementation Gap in Flexible Working Arrangements</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Recipient | Febrin Low Chao Jing
Department of Sociology
National University of Singapore |
| Aim | To explore the factors motivating people to take up flexible working arrangements, so as to provide insights into the low take-up rate. |

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Project</th>
<th>Drivers of Family Social Support for the Elderly in Singapore</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Recipient | Chong Ruixin
School of Social Sciences
Singapore Management University |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Aim</th>
<th>To explore the role of family structures, contrasting those of elderly with and without children, in enabling and encouraging the provision of instrumental and emotional support for the elderly and the effect on the provision of instrumental and emotional support by families on the psychological and physical well-being of the elderly.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Project</td>
<td>The Value of Marriage</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| Recipients | Lee Mei Rong
Koh Mi Zhi Mitzi
Liew Si Min
Division of Economics, School of Humanities and Social Sciences
Nanyang Technological University |
| Aim | To examine how singles value marriage using an economics framework, to provide insights into how individuals make choices on whether to marry. |
| Project | Family Bonding Before and After Marriage: A Key to the Pillar of Support of the Nation and Individual Level |
| Recipients | Gina Tay Pei Ru
Stephanie Yeo Yan
Felicia Tan Li Xuan
Law Xue Fen
Division of Economics, School of Humanities and Social Sciences
Nanyang Technological University |
| Aim | To examine the factors that are related to family bonding and the impact of family bonding at the individual level specifically, on the development of altruistic tendencies in children. |

2010 Grant Call

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Project</th>
<th>Do you know what they are thinking about? On the Improvement of Social Understanding in Pre-schoolers</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Recipients | Shen Pinxiu
Long Ying Ying
School of Humanities and Social Sciences
Nanyang Technological University |
| Aim | To find out whether role-play helps in the Theory of Mind development (i.e. the social understanding) of pre-schoolers in Singapore. |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>2</th>
<th>Project</th>
<th>The Impacts of Working Parent(s) on Adolescents: Moderating Effects of Adolescent’s Perception of Working Parent(s) on Family Characteristics-Adolescent’s School Related Outcome Relationship</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Recipient | Pan Shiyling Serene
Department of Psychology
National University of Singapore |
| Aim | To test a theoretical model examining the relationship between family characteristics and adolescents’ school related outcomes, and how this relationship may be moderated by adolescents’ perceptions of their working parent(s) in single and dual-income families. |

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>3</th>
<th>Project</th>
<th>Messages on Marriage and Family in Singapore’s English Language Mainstream Print Media: A Content Analysis</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Recipient | Benita Aw Yeong Huiyi
School of Social Sciences
Singapore Management University |
| Aim | To understand the problem of Singapore’s marriage and baby gap from the perspective of the media, and the role it plays in influencing the marriage and family decisions of young adults. |

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>4</th>
<th>Project</th>
<th>Dinner Table Woes: A Decline of the Family</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Recipient | Diana Ang Shu Zhen
Department of Sociology
National University of Singapore |
| Aim | To use the practice of family mealtimes as a lens through which to view the family, exploring how the idea of the family is sustained and experienced. Mealtimes act as a platform via which the family presents itself to itself and others - constituting and reaffirming the idea of the family. The thesis thus illustrates how the family is not a natural entity, but one configured through a range of symbolisms and social practices which change continuously over time. |

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>5</th>
<th>Project</th>
<th>The Social Construction of Fatherhood in Dual-Income Families</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Recipient | Amaria Janoah Ponniah
Department of Sociology
National University of Singapore |
| Aim | To challenge the assumption of minimal paternal involvement in family work by asking how fathers in dual-income household perceive their role through an analysis of the father in the everyday life of the family. It challenges notions of gender division-of-labour to understand the implications of fatherhood today on family-life patterns and family size decisions. |
2009 Grant Call

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Project</th>
<th>Recipient</th>
<th>Aim</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| 1 | The Impact of Gender-role Adherence on Singaporean Men and Women Managers’ Career and Family Outcomes | Madeline Ong Li Xuan
Lee Kong Chian School of Business
Department of Organisational Behaviour and Human Resources
Singapore Management University | To gain a better understanding of how gender-based views relating to work and home affect Singaporean managers’ career and family outcomes. |
| 2 | American TV Series and their Effects on Attitudes Towards Marriage: A Cultivation Analysis | Grace Swee Hui En
Department of Communications and New Media
National University of Singapore | To understand the effects of selected popular American television series on the attitudes of local adult females towards marriage. The study will explore the different messages pertaining to marriage and female singlehood, conveyed through such series and assess the attitudes held by heavy and light viewers. |

2008 Grant Call

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Project</th>
<th>Recipients</th>
<th>Aim</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| 1 | Inter-Generational Relationship Differences in Romantic Beliefs of Singaporean Chinese Women | Lee Yoke Wen
Kelda Tan
Rachel Lim
Division of Psychology, School of Humanities and Social Sciences
National Technological University | To understand the Asian beliefs on love and marriage; identify the attachment styles of Singaporean Chinese women; and identify generational differences in the above two objectives. |
| 2 | How the Elderly in Singapore Satisfy their Emotional and Social Needs through Leisure Activities in a Public Space | Shen Weixiong
Division of Sociology, School of Humanities and Social Sciences
National Technological University |                                                                                                                                       |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Aim</th>
<th>To examine how the elderly satisfy their emotional and social needs (in lieu of the family) through leisure activities participation in a public space; and the strategies that they adopt in order to experience graceful ageing.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Project</td>
<td>Impact of Senior Volunteering on Volunteers and Their Family Members in Singaporean Context</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| Recipients | Nagoor Mohideen Fatimah
Tang Chyi Yueh
Department of Social Work
National University of Singapore |
| Aim | To identify benefits and strains as a result of senior volunteering, as perceived by the senior volunteers and their family members; study the relationship between the socio-demographics and individual capacity characteristics of the senior volunteers and the perceived benefits and strains from volunteering; and the association of the benefits and strains from senior volunteering with family functioning. |